

Alexandru LUCINESCU is senior researcher at the Institute for Political Studies of Defence and Military History from the Romanian Ministry of National Defence. He previously worked in higher education institutions where he held teaching and research position, his last academic tenure being that of associate professor at Carol I National Defence University.

He holds a PhD in Philosophy from University of Bucharest and a PhD in Intelligence and national security from Carol I National Defence University, as well as an MA in International relations and European integration from National School of Political Science and Public Administration.

His main research area includes civil-military relations, ethics of international relations, European security and defence. He has published over 50 articles and studies and authored five books.