

Cristina Brăgea is a scientific researcher in the field of military history at the Institute for Political Studies of Defence and Military History, Ministry of National Defence, Romania. PhD student in the field of international relations within a co-supervision program between the University of Bucharest, Faculty of History, and École des Hautes Études de Sciences Sociales in Paris.

Fields of interest: history of diplomacy, religion and national security, cultural and memorial policies in Central and Eastern Europe, urban anthropology studies - artistic forms of protests.