

Serban Filip Cioculescu (b. 1972, in Bucharest) is a second-grade (senior) researcher in the field of security studies within the Institute for Political Studies of Defense and Military History, belonging to the Ministry of National Defense. He started his activity within the Institute since 2002.

He is also a lecturer (invited member of the teaching staff) at the Faculty of Political Sciences - the University of Bucharest (2005-present).

He is a graduate of the Faculty of Letters and Faculty of Political Sciences with the University of Bucharest, later obtaining a master's degree in international relations. Since 2009, he has a doctoral degree in political sciences awarded by the University of Bucharest.

He has published about one hundred scientific articles and five single-author books in the field of security and defense, international relations and geopolitics in various prestigious scientific journals, in Romania and abroad. He carried out scientific internships abroad in countries such as South Africa, China, South Korea and France.

His main research areas: security in Europe and in the trans-Atlantic area, China's foreign and security policy, the theories of international relations, geopolitics, international organizations.